

000000391269	NOTED IN CEN
--------------	--------------

SERIAL C I F87E SUB
060609010101010101

1

Journal: Journal of Education, 1997, 120(1), 101-110. ERIC ED434 140. The author discusses the importance of the teacher's role in the classroom and the need for a more holistic approach to education. The author argues that the current focus on standardized testing and high-stakes assessment is a narrow view of education. The author suggests that teachers should focus on the whole child, including the child's social, emotional, and intellectual development. The author also discusses the importance of teacher education and the need for a more comprehensive approach to teacher training. The author concludes by suggesting that the future of education lies in a more holistic and humanistic approach.